

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This assessment of the Pacific OCS Region was performed by a team of geoscientists at the MMS Pacific OCS Region Office of Resource Evaluation in Camarillo, California, with the unwavering managerial support of Robert G. Paul. Other MMS personnel in the Resource Evaluation Division in Herndon, Virginia (Paul E. Martin, Pulak K. Ray, Barry S. Dickerson, Nick D. Gasdaglis, John G. Buffington, Glen E. Lyddane), Alaska OCS Region in Anchorage, Alaska (Kirk W. Sherwood, James D. Craig, Larry W. Cooke), and Gulf of Mexico OCS Region in Metairie, Louisiana (Gary L. Lore, David W. Cooke, Ralph J. Klazynski, Katherine M. Ross), provided helpful guidance and assistance during the course of the assessment.

Numerous individuals from other government agencies, the petroleum industry, academia, and the local geological community gave generously of their time and expertise to review and improve the definition and characterization of petroleum geologic plays and to provide feedback regarding the resource estimates. Many of these individuals are acknowledged in relevant parts of the Petroleum Geology and Resource Estimates section of this report.

Technical consultants James K. Crouch, David A. White, and Richard M. Procter provided valuable expertise and guidance regarding the geology of the California coastal margin, play analysis, and resource estimation, respectively.

This report was improved by the thoughtful and constructive editorial reviews of Jackie T. Durham and Arlene M. Bajusz of the MMS Information Technology Division in Herndon, Virginia. Printing funds were provided by the MMS Resource Evaluation Division.

The contributions and assistance of all of these individuals and organizations are gratefully acknowledged and appreciated.
